STAKEHOLDER IDENTIFICATION AND ENGAGEMENT PLAN

INTRODUCTION

The Constitution, (Article 174c), provides that one object of devolution is: “to give powers of self-governance to the people and enhance their participation in the exercise of the powers of the State and in making decisions affecting them”. The Constitution assigns the responsibility to ensure, facilitate and build capacity of the public to participate in the governance to the county government through function 14 (Schedule 4 Part 2). As such, county governments are required to:

- a. Create mechanisms of engagement by ensuring and coordinating the participation of communities and locations in governance; and
- b. Build capacity by assisting communities and locations to develop the administrative capacity for the effective exercise of the functions and powers.

STAKEHOLDER MAPPING

Urban development is influenced by a great number of stakeholders, both inside and outside of government. Stakeholder mapping helps identify who these stakeholders are, and discusses which role they should have in the project. When mapping the broader range of stakeholders, establish:

- » Whoever influences, or is influenced by, the project in the town.
- » Whoever can influence changes in the project.
- » Whoever is affected by the proposed project.

CATEGORIES

- A political/decision-making body, - where key strategic decisions are taken.

For this project, the Director Urban as the County Project Coordinator is the reference person but the day to day management shall be done by the Municipal administration under the Municipal Manager. The overall responsibility lies with the in the projects would be the County Executive Committee, while smaller projects will have a different decision-making structure. The political level shall give a clear mandate, instructions and support to develop the project. The role of the role of the Members of the County Assembly (MCAs) is important for leadership at the town level.

- A coordination unit, which is responsible for the substantive work of implementing the project.

At this level the County Project Coordination Team (CPCT) will take charge and coordinate the project. The membership is cross-departmental. This a good way of ensuring an integrated way of working. There will be continuous two-way communication between the CPCT and the CeCM Urban, Director Urban, Manager, from the lead department would typically be responsible for leading the work of the Coordination Unit.
